

EUROPE'S DIVERSITY

MAPS OF DIVERSITY

The Maps of Diversity presentation shows how different cultures and natural environments vary around the world. It includes maps that highlight languages, traditions, nature, and other elements that make each place unique. The partner countries in the project will add their own information to the maps, helping to show a wide and colourful picture of global diversity.

Presentation contains maps of:

- languages
- traditional festivities
- traditional sustainable cuisine
- flags, costumes, songs...
- flora and fauna

MAP OF LANGUAGES

The next slide of our presentation provides us with a detailed look at the linguistic diversity of each country participating in our exchange. The highlighted regions range from having slight dialectal differences to being able to be classified as separate languages entirely.

(Dialects, sub-languages, and distinct languages are marked as such.)

MAP OF TRADITIONAL FESTIVITIES

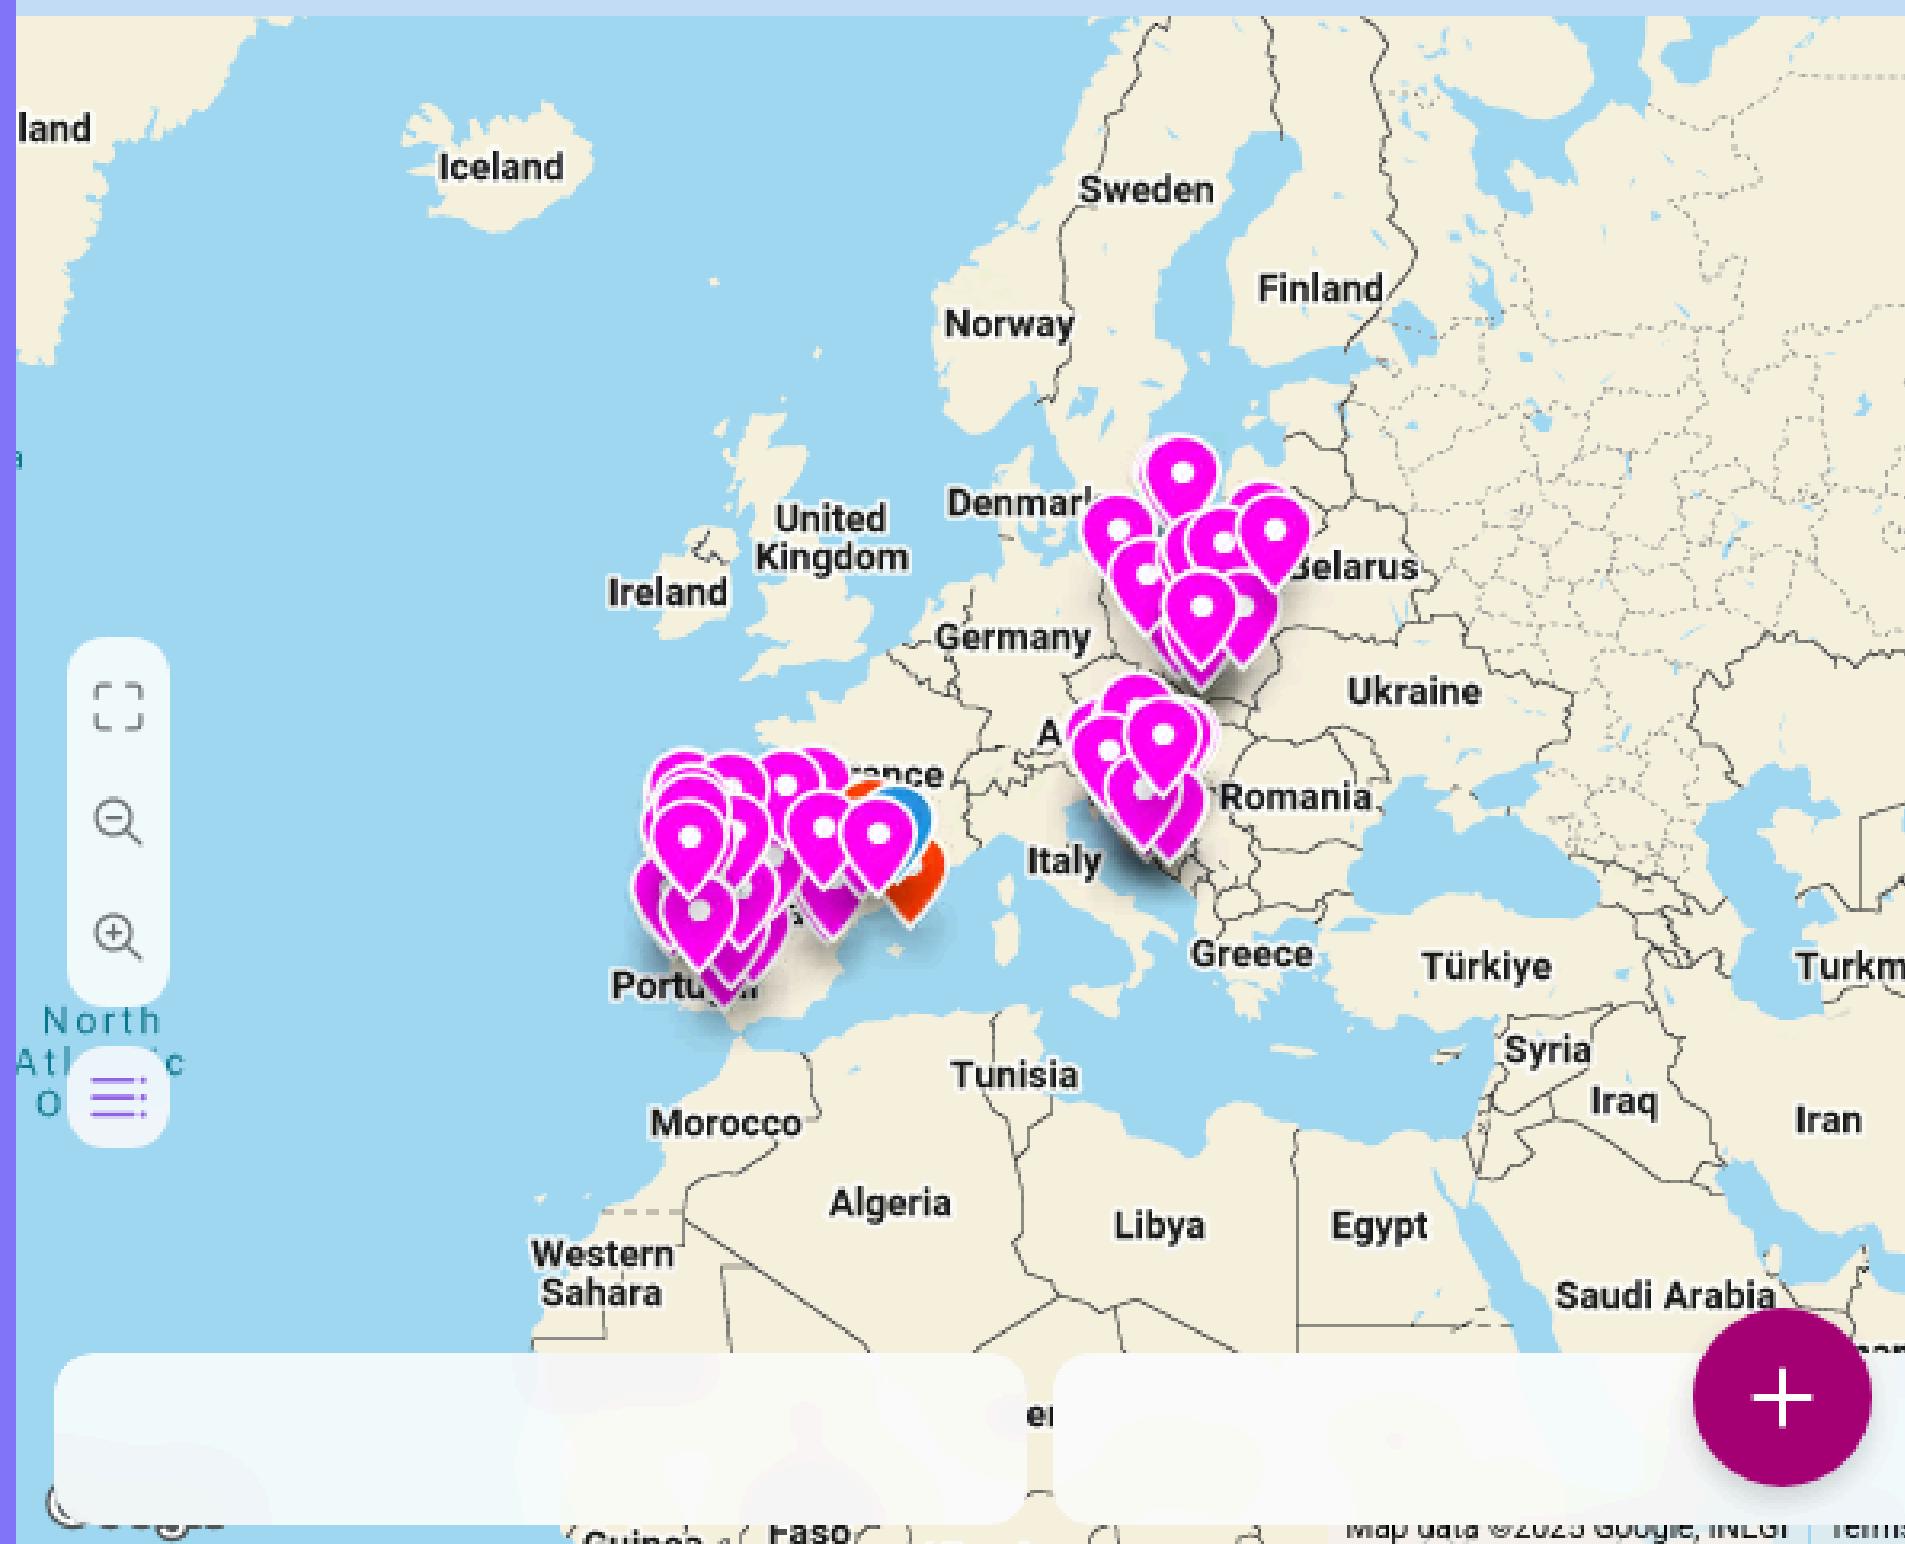

A map of traditional festivities shows how different parts of the world celebrate their cultural events. It gives an overview of important customs connected to each place and explains the character of these celebrations and when people usually take part in them. This map helps see the variety of traditions that exist in different regions.

MAP OF FLORA AND FAUNA

The following map contains Poland's beautiful nature and wildlife.

Our country has numerous terrains and landscapes which have striking views and majestic wildlife. We are particularly proud of our mountainous regions, such as the "Tatry" or "Karpaty" mountains.

Those are homes to one of the most beautiful animals in our country such as:

The classic, brown bear, golden eagles and last but not least the Tatra chamois

Of course we can't forget our plant life. The most notable of them is the Carpathian bellflower, with its beautiful purple colors that stand out in the green fields in which they grow.

CONCLUSION OF THE MAPS

“Maps of Diversity” show how cultures and natural environments vary around the world. The project includes maps of languages, traditional celebrations, local cuisine, flags, clothing, music, and elements of nature. Maps like these are very helpful and pleasant to use for visual learners, who connect the discussed topic with the location on the padlet map. This helps students broaden their knowledge of the world, understand cultural diversity, and learn to appreciate the value of different traditions.
